Volunteer Spotlight

Shuffling and toe stomping to the beat of lively music is now second nature to line dancing instructor extraordinaire Gary deLeaumont. When first introduced to this art, Gary claims he “was the worst student”. He first took lessons so that he could participate more fully in a conference where he knew country-western dancing would be on the agenda. By default, Gary began teaching on his own in 1994, and continues today at a club called John Paul’s on Elysian Fields. Gary’s teaching talent is enhanced every year by his attendance at the Annual International Conference on line dancing held in various cities in the U.S. and Canada. Each year he adds new dances to his “menu”. His loyal students at People Program give him praise for his gift of concise instruction along with laughter. Gary returns the compliment with his own assessment of his participants: “fun, enjoyable and lovely.” Gary first heard about People Program from a Clarion Herald article, and realized that he might have something to offer. Both West Bank and Lakeshore campuses embrace his intermediate classes, and the rhythm and beat of dancing feet can be heard in all the hallways. Thank-you, Gary for sharing your therapeutic gift of line dancing to all who are hungry for fun and laughter!

Laugh Along.....

A company in search of a shake-up hired a new CEO. The new boss was determined to get rid of all slackers. On a tour of the facilities, he noticed a man leaning on a wall. In a room full of workers, the CEO saw a chance to prove that he meant business.

He walked up to the man and asked, "How much money do you make a week?" The man looked at him and replied, "Two hundred dollars a week. Why?" The CEO handed the man $200 in cash and shouted, "Here’s a week’s pay. Now get out and don’t come back!" The man shrugged and left.

Feeling good about flexing his muscle, the CEO looked around the room and asked, "Does anyone want to tell me what that slacker does here?"

One of the other workers sheepishly muttered, "He was the pizza-delivery guy."
